His writings have been printed with almost all the editions of Catullus and Tibullus, and will be found noticed under these respective poets. The separate impressions of Propertius are as follows:—Opera. Without name of printer or place, 1472, 4to. This
c is the first distinct edition of Propertius, although it is probably subsequent to the united works of Catullus, Tibullus, and the present poet. It is an uncommon and elegant Work.—Opera. Without name of printer, place, or date, 4to. This is a very ancient and curious impression, and has even been classed by some as the earliest edition of Propertius. It appears to have been printed by Thomas Ferrando, at Brescia.—Opera, ab Ant. Volscio. Rom. ap. Euch. Sibber. 1482, 4to.—Opera, a Phil. Beroaldo. Bonon. 1490, fol.—Opera, a Martino Lantapergensi. Herbip. 1495, 4to. Par. 1499, 4to.—Opera, a Jano Brouckusio. Amst. 1702, 1708, et 1727, 4to. These are valuable editions. The latter is the most correct and end larged.—Opera, cum Not. Var. a Jo. Ant. Vulpio. Patav. 1755, 4to. A most excellent and critical edition.—Opera, cum Jo. Passeratii Com. et Jani Brouckhusii not. selectis, ex J. Ant. Vulpio recensione. Lips. 1757, 2 tom. 4to.—Opera, a Frid. Gottl. Barthio. Lips. 1777, 8vo. A very useful edition.—Opera, a Petro Burmanno secundo, et Laurentio Santelio. Traj. ad Rh. 1780, 4to. The best edition of Propertius yet published.—Opera, a Kuinœlo. Lips. 1805, 8vo. An elegant and desirable impression.——Eng. PRUDENTIUS, Clemens Aurelius, an ancient Christian Poet, was born in Spain in the year 348. The time of his death is not ascertained. ——CARMINA.—Carm. Without name of Printer, place or date, but printed about the year 1490, 4to. This is the editio princeps. Bibliographers have indeed noticed an edition at Daventer, of the date of p 1472; but it appears pretty evident that no such edition exists.—Carm. Ven. ap. Ald. 1501, 4to. Among the "Poetæ Christiani Veteres." Of this rare and valuable edition there appears to have been a counterfeit made, but rather unluckily, as it is obviously not the production of the Aldine press.—Carm. a Nebrissenso. Lucron. 1512, 4to. This contains excellent explanatory Notes, but is rather scarce.—Carm. a Sichardo et Erasmo. Lugd. 1553, 1564, 12mo. Et 1696, 24mo.—Carm. a Victore Giselino. Ant. ap. Ulm, printed by Leonard Hol. 1482, fol. This is a splendid Work, containing, besides the Maps, a number of rich and beautiful wood cuts.—Cosmog. Lat. Bologna, printed by Dominicus de Lapis, 1462, fol. The spurious date affixed to this volume has given it a notoriety among Bibliographers. The discussions among them respecting this typographical error are numerous and lengthened; and Bartolomeo Gamba has even devoted a distinct quarto volume (' Osservazioni su la Edizione della Geografia di Tolomeo,' &c. ' Bassano, 1790,' 4to.) to the subject. The result of the whole is, as is generally the case, unsatisfactory. De Bure and Gamba are of opinion that 1472 is the genuine date of the impression, Meerman, Audiffredi and Dibdin incline to place it ten years later, and Breitkopf and others affirm that 1491 is its only true date!—Cosmog. cum Tabulis geographicis depictis. PUBLIANUS. See Publius Syrus.

PUBLICIUS, Jacobus.—Opera. Venice, printed by Ratdolt, 1485, 4to. This includes the Epitome Artis Oratoriæ, the Ars Conficiendi Epistolas, and the Ars Memorativa of this Author, and appears to be the first edition of these Works. It is a very interesting volume, owing to the beauty of the typography, and the numerous wood cuts which it presents.

PUBLIUS SYRUS, an ancient Latin Author, who flourished under Augustus; is supposed, from his name, to have been a Syrian by birth. He is famous as a composer of those comic pieces called ' Mimes,' and contended with Laberius in that style. The Mimes of Publius have always been printed along with those of Laberius, and will be found under that Author. We have yet, however, to notice two English versions of Publius, the one entitled,—Proverbes or Adagies, with newe Addicions, gathered out of the Chiliads of Erasmus; by Rich. Taverner. Hereunto are added the Mimi Publiani, that is to saye, quicke and sentenciouse verses or meters of Publius. Lond. 1539, 1540, 1547, 8vo. Lond. 1550, 12mo.—And the other, Mimi Publiani, English and Latin, by Ch. Hoole, with Cato's Distichs. Lond. 1659, 1670, 1704, 8vo. And 1749, 12mo.—Publius is also Author of ' Sententiæ,' which were extracted from his Mimic Pieces some time under the Antonines. They are generally printed with the Fables of Phædrus, and are subjoined to them by Dr. Bentley, at the end of his edition of Terence, in 1726, 4to. There is also a separate edition of them by Gruter, with copious Notes. Leyd. 1708, 8vo.

RUFFINUS, or Rufinus, a celebrated Priest of Aquileia, called by some Toranius, was born about the middle of the fourth century, at Concordia, a small city in Italy; died in Sicily, about the year 410. He has left—a Tract in defence of Origen.—Two Apologies against St. Jerome.—Commentaries e on Jacob's Benedictions, on Hosea, Joel, and Amos.—Several Lives of the Fathers of the Desert.—An Exposition of the Creed.—The Commentary on the Psalms, which bears his name, was not written by him.—He translated; Josephus from Greek into Latin.—Ecclesiastical History by Eusebius, to which he added two books.—Several of Origen's Writings, with his Apology, by St. Pamphilius.—Ten of St. Gregory of Nazianzen's Discourses. —And eight of St. Basil's.—Opera, a Renat. Laur. de la Barre. Par. 1580, fol. Et a Dominico Vallarsi. Veron. 1745, vol. i. fol. This ef dition has not been completed.—Such is a summary notice of the Works of Ruffinus, but we have still to advert to a book written by him, which is intimately connected with the history of British typography. It goes under the name of St. Jerome, but it is now pretty clear that Ruffinus was the real Author of it. The title is, "Expositio Sancti Jeronimi in Symbolum Apostolorum ad Papam Laurentium. Impressa Oxonie et finita Anno Domini M.CCCC.LXVIII., xvii. die Decembris." 4to. This volume was first discovered in 1664, and was then brought forward by Atkyns, as a proof that Caxton was not the first printer in England. The date of the book is three years earlier than any of Caxton's; and if it could only be authenticated, it would certainly deprive him of the honour of being the Father of English printing. But there are many circumstances which tend g to shew that the date (1468) is erroneous. A few of these may be merely stated. First, Every record previous to 1664 mentions Caxton as being the first printer in England. Second, The beauty and neatness of the "Expositio" itself, and the appearance of signatures in it, (which were not invented till about the year 1472,) sufficiently confute its date. Thirdly, Independent of these, if the volume was actually printed at Oxford in 1468, how is the total cessation of the Oxford Press till 1478 to be accounted for, when after that year it was so actively and constantly exercised? These are enough to shew that the book must have been printed at least ten years later than the date which is affixed to it.

Par Madame . Par. 1776, 4to. And another edition in folio. The principle of the system recommended here consists in employing, for typographical composition, letters united together, and forming a sound, instead of detached letters, as is the common way; so that each sound, being composed of several letters, as am, ion, ains, or illes, shall be expressed by one single character, cast at once by the founder, though containing several letters. This mode of printing, how- g ever, appears to have failed.

SALLO, Denis de, the first Projector of Literary Journals or Reviews, was born at Paris in 1626; died 1669.—In 1664 he formed the project of the "Journal des Sçavans;" and the year following began to publish it under the name of his Valet de Chambre, Sieur de Hedouville; but the severity of his censures gave offence to many; and, after having published g his third Journal, he turned the Work over to the Abbé Gallois, who dropped all criticism, and gave merely titles and extracts.

SALLUSTIUS, the Platonic Philosopher, lived in the fourth century. —De Diis et Mundo, Libellus, Gr. et Lat. a Leo Allatio. Rom. 1638, 12mo. Et Gr. Lat. in T. Gale Opusc. Mythologicis, &c. SALLUSTIUS, Caius Crispus, a Roman Historian, born at Amih ternum, 86 B. C.; died B. C. 35.——OPERA.—Op. Venice, printed by Vindelin de Spira, 1470, 4to. This elegantly printed volume is generally styled the Editio Princeps, although it is doubtful whether the ensuing one, with the same date, be not printed before it.—Opera. Without place, or name of Printer, 1470, 4to. A very scarce and valuable Work: It appears to have been printed at Rome.—Op. absque ulla Nota, 4to. From the Colophon, this edition seems to have been printed at Paris, by Gering, Crantz, and Friburger, about the year 1470; and is the second book printed in France.—Op.
i Venet. ap. Vind. Spir. 1471, fol. This edition is more correct than the one by the same Printer, preceding year. —Op. Printed by Peter Cæsaris and John Stoll, without place or date, 4to. Bibliographers have been unable to come to any conclusion respecting the date of this edition, as well as the two others which we have placed before it. The arrangement which they hold, however, is perhaps as correct as conjecture can be.—Oper. Without place or date; but supposed by Maittaire to have been executed by Adam Rot. fol.—Op. Without name of printer, place or date; but attributed to the Press of Martin Flach of Strasbourg. fol.—Op. Ven. ap. Phil. Veneto, 1472, fol. The only authority for the existence of this impression is the "Catal. Biblioth. Suaier," p. 16.—Op. Venice, printed by John de Colonia, &c. 1474, fol.—Op.

m a Jano Grutero. Franc. 1607, 8vo.—Oper. Lugd. Bat. ap. Elzev. 1634, 12mo. This is a neat little edition, and so scarce that it was counterfeited; but the genuine one is easily distinguished by a vignette of the head of Medusa, with two extended pikes, at p. 126.—Op. cum Notis var. ab Ant. Thysio. Lugd. Bat. 1649, 1654, et 1659, 8vo.—Op. cum Not. var. a J. F. Gronovio. Lugd. Bat. 1665, 1677, 1686, et 1690, 8vo. This last edition is the most valuable.—Op. a Dan. Crispino, in usum Delphini. Par. 1674, 4to. Reprinted, Par. 1726, 4to. And, Lond. 1697, 1715, 1726, 1733, 1768, and 1784, 8vo.—Op. cum Indicibus et variis Lectionibus. n Op. a Josepho Wasse. Cantab. 1710, 4to. An excellent edition, enriched with the entire Notes of Glareanus, Rivius, Ciacconius, Gruter, Carrion. Manutius, Putscius, and Dousa; and with selections from the Notes of Castalio, Popma, Palmer, Ursini, Gronovius, Victorius, &c. together with those of the learned editor himself.—Op. a Mich. Maittaire. Lond. 1713, 12mo. A good edition. Reprinted, Lond. 1725, 1745, 1762, et 1771, 12mo.—Op. a Cajet. Vulpio. Patav. ap. Comin. 1722, 8vo.—Op. a Gottl. Cortio. Lips. 1724, 4to. This is an admirable edition. The text is given with great care and accuracy; and the notes, says Ernesti, are the very best for a student to peruse, if he wishes to understand Sallust.—
o Op. ex recens. Gottl. Cortii, cum Fragmentis Veter. Historic. Ven. 1537, 4to.—Op. Lond. 1738, 18mo.—Op. a Junckero. Lips. 1739, 12mo.—Op. Edinburgi, Guill. Ged, Aurifaber, Edinensis, non typis mobilibus, ut vulgo fieri solet, sed tabellis seu laminis excudebat. 1739, 18mo. This is the first effort made at Stereotype; and by this work it is evident, that to Ged alone the honour of the invention, at least the first trial of it, belongs. In Tilloch's Philosophical Magazine, there is a specimen given of Ged's Stereotype, which must claim attention as being the first known essay of an art which has been carried on with so much success both in Britain and France.—Op. a Sieg. Havercamp. Amst. 1742, 2 vols. 4to.
p A very splendid and laborious Work, by some called the Editio Optima. —Op. Lond. 1744, 24mo.—Op. Dubl. 1745, 8vo.—Op. ex recensione Gottl. Corte. Glasg. ap. R. et A. Foulis, 1749, 1751, et 1777, 12mo. Correct and neat, as usual.—Op. Edinb. Hamilton and Balfour, 1755, 12mo. "This most beautiful edition of Sallust," says Harwood, "was purposely printed for the prize then offered by the University of Edinburgh, and deservedly obtained it. I have read it five times through, and have not discovered a single error."—Op. cum duobus Oration. et Declamation. Hal. 1755, 12mo.—Op. Par. ap. Barbou, 1761, et 1774, 12mo.—Op. Lat. et Hisp. Matrit. ex Typograph. Reg. 1772, fol. A superb edition, q and very rare, as only a few copies were thrown off for Presents. The Spanish translation is by the Prince Don Gabriel.—Op. Birm. ap. Baskerville, 1773, 4to. SAXO, surnamed Grammaticus, from his extensive erudition, a Historian of Denmark, was born of an illustrious Danish family, and flourished k in the 12th century.—History of Denmark. Paris, 1514, and Basil. by Oporinus, 1534, fol. Printed also at Francfort on the Maine, 1576, and at Sora, by Stephens, 1644, 2 vols. fol.; the last of which is occupied by the Annotations of the editor. There is likewise a more modern edition printed at Lips. 1771, 4to. besides several Danish translations. The Work itself consists of sixteen books, and extends from the earliest Accounts of Denmark, to the year 1156. The style of it is extremely elegant, and even poetical; perhaps too much so for History.

SCALIGER, Julius Cæsar, an able but very fastidious Critic, born at Ripa, a Castle in the territory of Verona, 1484; died 1558. The following list comprehends only his principal Works:—Commentarii in Hippocratis Librum de Insomniis, Gr. et Lat. Lyons, 1538, 8vo. Several times reprinted.—Heroes; or, Epigrams on various Personages of antiquity. Lyons, 1539, 4to.—De Causis Linguæ Latinæ, Libri xiii. Lugd. apud Gryph. 1540, 4to. 1597, 1609, 8vo. This is esteemed one of Scaliger's most valuable productions.—De Comicis Dimenw sionibus. Prefixed to an edition of Terence, printed at Paris, 1552, fol.—Exotericarum Exercitationum, Liber quintus decimus, de Subtilitate, ad Hieronymum Cardanum. Paris, 1557, 4to. Often reprinted.—Poëtices, Libri septem. 1561, fol. 1581, 1607, 8vo. Heidelb. 1617, 8vo. This Scaligeri adversus Desiderium Erasmum, Orationes duæ, eloquentiæ Romanæ vindices, cum ejusdem epistolis et opusculis. Toul. 1621, 4to. The first of these Orations, printed at Paris, 1531, 8vo., was a wanton and virulent attack upon Erasmus, for which, however, Scaliger afterwards expressed great penitence.

SCALIGER, Josephus Justus, Son of the preceding, and a Critic of like talents and temper as his Father, was born at Agen, 1540; died 1609. His Works are numerous and various: we can only enumerate the more y important of them; and his Annotations on the Greek and Latin Authors need only be referred to. See Aristophanes, Ausonius, Baudius, Beck, Cæsar, Capellus, Catullus, Constantinus, Durantius, Eusebius, Heinsius, Hippolytus, Jamblicus, Julianus, Lycophron, Magnesius, Manilius, Orpheus, Propertius, Seneca, Tibullus, Virgilius, &c.—Opus de Emendatione Temporum, Libri viii. SCAPULA, John, the reputed Author of a Greek Lexicon, the dates of whose birth and death are not recorded.—Lexicon, Græco-Latinum. Bas. 1579, 1594, 1605, 1627, 1665, fol. Genev. 1598, fol. Lond. 1619, fol. Et cum Addit. edente Joan. Harmaro. Lond. 1637, fol. Lugd. Bat. d ap. Elzev. 1652, fol. This is the best edition, and sells at a high price. Some copies have the imprint, "Londini, impensis Josuæ Kirkton et Samuelis Thompson;" but the names of Kirkton and Thompson are probably affixed from their having a share in the publication. There is another edition, Lug. 1663, fol.; and an Appendix by Dr. Askew. Lond. 1789, fol. Glasg. 1816, 2 vols. 4to. This Lexicon, abstractly considered, is a work of uncommon utility; but there are circumstances connected with it which will hand down its compiler to merited disgrace. Being employed by Henry Stephans as a corrector to his press, while he was publishing his "Thesaurus Linguæ Græcæ," Scapula extracted privately from the sheets of that great Work e what he judged of greatest use, comprised them in one volume, and published them as an original work, with his own name. This abridgment appearing before the great original, and being more within the reach of common students, sold rapidly, while the Thesaurus itself lay neglected in the Author's hands. The consequence was a bankruptcy on the part of Stephans, while he who had occasioned it was enjoying the fruits of his treachery. It is painful to record such an outrage against honour and literature; but this cannot be avoided, until the name of Scapula is struck out of the Lexicon, and that of its real Author affixed.

SHAKESPEAR, John, Esq.—Grammar of the Hindostan Language. 1813, 4to.

SHAKESPEAR, William, the brightest luminary of the Dramatic World, was born at Stratford-upon-Avon, in Warwickshire, 23d April 1564; died on his birth-day, 1616. Than Shakespear, there is perhaps no Author of whose Works it is more difficult to give a correct list. This arises not merely from the many spurious Plays ascribed to him, but also from the contrariety of opinion respecting the chronology of those which are known to be genuine. To come nearer accuracy on these two points, we have not only specified the dates of such plays as were printed separately, but affixed the different dates given by Mr. Malone, Mr. George Chalmers, and Dr. Drake, who have endeavoured to ascertain the period when the different plays were written, and placed those supposed to be spurious at the end.—Pericles, Prince of Tyre. (Written, according to Drake, 1590.) Printed, Lond. 1609, 4to. 1611, 8vo. 1619, 1630, 1635, 4to.—Comedy of Errors. (Written, according to Chalmers and Drake, 1591; according to Malone, 1593.) This Play is founded on Plautus' Menæchmi.—Love's Labour Lost. (Written, according to Drake, 1591; to Chalmers, 1592; to Malone, 1594.) Printed, Lond. 1598, 4to. 1631, 4to.—King John: 2 Parts. (Written, according to Malone, 1596; to Drake, 1597; to Chalmers, 1598:) Herbert however mentions an edition of as early a date as Lond. 1591, 4to. Reprinted, Lond. 1611, 1622, 4to.—Henry VI. Part I. (Written, according to Drake, 1592; to Chalmers, 1595.) Part II. (according to Malone, who is of opinion that Shakespear did not write the First, 1591; Drake, 1592; Chalmers, 1595.) Part III. (Malone, 1591; Chalmers, 1595.) First printed at Lond. 1600.—Midsummer Night's Dream. (Written, according to Malone, 1592; to Drake, 1593; to Chalmers, 1598.) First printed under the title of, A Midsommer Night's Dreame: as it hath beene sundry times publikely acted, by the Right Hon. the Lord Chamberlaine his Seruants. Lond. 1600, 4to. The comical part of this Play has been printed separately, under the title of, Bottom the Weaver.—Romeo and Juliet. (Written, according to Chalmers, 1592; Drake, 1593; Malone, 1595.) First printed under the title of, An excellent conceited Tragedy of Romeo and Juliet. Lond. 1597, 1599, 4to. Corrected and augmented, 1637, 4to.—Venus and Adonis. Lond. 1593. Reprinted by Richard Field, and are to be solde at the sign of the White Greyhound, in Paul's Churchyard. Lond. 1602, 8vo. Exceedingly scarce. Also, Edin. 1627, printed by John Wreittoun, and are to bee sold at his Shop, a little beneath the Salt-Trone.—The Taming of the Shrew. (Written, according to Malone and Drake, 1594; to Chalmers, 1598.) And printed in 1631, 4to.—Titus Andronicus; a Tragedy. First printed, Lond. 1594, 4to. Reprinted, Lond. 1611, 4to. Supposed by some not to have been written by Shakespear.—The Passionate Pilgrim. Lond. first edit. 1599. Again, 1599, 16mo.—The Rape of Lucrece; a Poem. Lond. 1594, 4to. Lond. 1598, 8vo. 1600, 1624. And again, with the title of, The Rape of Lucrece, committed by Tarquin the Sixt, and the remarkable Judgments that befel him for it: By the incomparable Master of our English Poetry, Will. Shakespeare, Gent. Whereunto is annexed, The Banishment of Tarquin; or the Reward of Lust. Lond. 1655, 8vo.—The Two Gentlemen of Verona; a Comedy. (Written, according to Malone, Chalmers, and Drake, 1595.) And printed, 1634, 4to. 1763, 8vo.—The true Tragedie of Richard Duke of York, (Richard III.), and the Death of good King Henrie the Sixt; with the whole Contention betweene the two Houses of Lancaster and Yorke: As it was sundrie times acted by the Right Honourable the Earle of Pembrooke his Seruants. (Written, according to Malone, 1595; according to Chalmers and Drake, 1597.) First printed, 1598, 1600, 4to. Newly augmented, 1602, 1622, 1629, 1634, 4to. The same, corrected and enlarged, without date, 4to. Also edited by Edmund Kean, Esq. 1818.—Hamlet, Prince of Denmark; a Tragedy. (Written, according to Malone, 1596; to Chalmers and Drake, 1597.) Printed, Lond. 1605, 1611, 1637, 1695. The Story of this Play is unquestionably founded upon a tradition of the Danish historian Saxo; although a modern Author has foolishly attempted to prove, that Shakespear intended it as a satire on Mary Queen of Scots.—Richard II.; a Tragedie. (Written, according to Chalmers and Drake, 1596; to Malone, 1597.) Printed, 1598, 4to. With newe additions of the Parliamente Sceane and the Deposing of King Richard. Lond. 1615, 4to. Lond. 1634, 4to. The same, adapted to the Stage, by R. Wroughton. Lond. 1815, 8vo.—King Henry IV.; a Tragedy. Part I. (Written, according to Chalmers and Drake, 1596; Malone, 1597.) Part II. (Written, according to Drake, 1596; to Chalmers, 1597; to Malone, 1598.) This Part was printed under the title of, The Second Part of Henrie the Fourth, continuing to his Death, and Coronation of Henrie the Fift; with the Humours of Sir John Falstaffe and swaggering Pistoll: As it hath been sundrie times publikely acted by the Right Honourable the Lord Chamberlaine his Seruants. Lond. 1600. Both Parts were previously printed with the title of, The Historie of Henrie the Fourth; with the Battell at Shrewsbury betweene the King and Lord Henrie Percy, surnamed Hotspur of the North; with the humerous Conceits of Sir John Falstaffe: Newely corrected by W. SMOLLETT, Tobias, M. D., a distinguished Novelist and Miscellaneous Writer, was born in the House of Dalquhurn, near Renton, in the Parish of Cardross, Dumbartonshire, 1721; died near Leghorn, October 21st 1771.—Advice; a Satire. 1746.—Reproof; a Satire; being the second part of Advice. 1747.—The Adventures of Roderick Random. Lond. 1748, 2 vols. 12mo. Lond. 1750, 2 vols. 12mo. The tenth edi-h tion. Lond. 1778, 2 vols. 12mo. Edinb. 1784, 2 vols. 8vo. Innumerable editions. In German. Berlin, 1790, 2 vols. 8vo. And also in most of the other European Languages. "Roderick Random," says the Edinburgh Review, "is the purest of Smollett's novels; we mean in point of style and description. Most of the incidents and characters are supposed to have been taken from the events of his own life; and are therefore truer to nature. There is a rude conception of generosity in some of his characters, of which Fielding seems to have been incapable; his amiable persons being merely good-natured. It is owing to this, we think, that Strap is superior to Partridge; and there is a heartiness and warmth of feeling in some of i the scenes between Lieutenant Bowling and his nephew, which is beyond Fielding's power of impassioned writing."—The Regicide; a Tragedy. Lond. 1749, 4to. This play was written at the age of eighteen.—The Adventures of Peregrine Pickle, in which are included, Memoirs of a Lady of Quality. Lond. 1751, 4 vols. 12mo. Second edition, same year. Reprinted. Lond. 1781, 4 vols. 8vo. Lond. 1784, 3 vols. 12mo. Numerous impressions.—An Essay on the external use of Water; with particular Remarks on the present method of using the Mineral Waters of Bath. Lond. 1752, 4to. 1s. 6d.—The Adventures of Ferdinand Count Fathom. Lond. 1753, 2 vols. 12mo. 6s. Lond. 1782, 2 vols. 8vo.—Don Quixote;
j translated into English. Lond. 1755, 2 vols. 4to. 42s. This is reckoned the best translation of Cervantes.—Compendium of Voyages. 1757, 7 vols. 12mo.—The Reprisals, or the Tars of Old England; a Comedy. 1757.—A Complete History of England, deduced from the Descent of Julius Cæsar, to the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle, 1748; containing the Transactions of one thousand eight hundred and three years. Lond. 1757–8, 4 vols. 4to. 68s. Reprinted. Lond. 1758–60, 11 vols. 8vo. This Work is an extraordinary instance of literary industry; being composed and finished for the press in the short space of fourteen months. The success of it encouraged Smollett to write a Continuation, which was printed, k Lond. 1763, 4 vols. 8vo. Vol. v. 1765, 8vo. Bringing down the History to that year. Smollett's volumes from the Revolution are generally printed along with Hume's, as a Continuation of that great Philosopher's History of England.—The Adventures of Sir Launcelot Greaves. Lond. 1762, 2 vols. 12mo. 1782, 2 vols. 8vo.—The Works of M. de Voltaire; translated from the French: with Notes, Historical and Critical. Lond. 1763, &c. 27 vols. 12mo. 3s. each volume. Written in conjunction with T. Francklin and others.—The Present State of all Nations. Lond. 1764, 8 vols. 8vo.—Travels through France and Italy; containing Observations on Character, Customs, Religion, Government, Police, Commerce, Mal nufactures, Arts, and Antiquities; with a particular Description of the Town, Territory, and Climate of Nice, and a register of the weather for eighteen months in that city. Lond. 1766, 2 vols. 8vo. 10s. The same, Dubl. 1766, 2 vols. 8vo.—The Adventures of an Atom. Lond. 1769. 2 vols. 12mo. Lond. 1786, 2 vols. 8vo. This is a satire upon the conductors and measures of government from the year 1754.—Ode to Independence. Glasg. 1773, 4to. This ode was left in manuscript, and printed, with some observations on it by Professor Richardson. Smollett's Poems, though few, are allowed to be of the first rank; which makes it to be regretted that he did not cultivate his poetical talents more extensively.
m His Ode to Independence, and "Tears of Scotland," are among the highest efforts in the sublime and pathetic.—The Adventures of Telemachus, the Son of Ulysses; translated from the French of Mons. F. Salignac de la Mothe Fenelon. Lond. 1776, 2 vols. 12mo. 6s.—The Adventures of Gil Blas of Santillane, translated. Lond. 1797, 4 vols. 12mo. Both this and the preceding profess to be translated by the Author of Roderick Random, but how far this agrees with truth we cannot say. The latter translation seems unworthy of Smollett's genius.—Plays and Poems, with Memoirs of the Life and Writings of the Author. Lond. 1777, 8vo. 4s.—Miscellaneous Works, with Memoirs of his Life and Writings; by Robert n Anderson, M. D. Edin. 1790, 6 vols. 8vo. The same, with Memoirs of his Life; to which is prefixed, a View of the Commencement and Progress of Romance; by J. Moore, M. D. Lond. 1797, 8 vols. 8vo.—Smollett wrote many articles in the British Magazine, and opposed Wilkes in a weekly paper called "The Briton." He was also, as is well known, the founder of "The Critical Review," which he conducted for several years with a spirit then new in the annals of criticism.

A Latin Translation of this Tragedy, by Thomas Watson, was printed at London, in 1581, 4to.—Trachiniæ, Gr. e recens. Brunckii edid. Hoepfner. Lips. 1791, 8vo.——TRAGŒDIÆ.—Tragœdiæ, sine Scholiis. Ven. ap. Ald. 1502, 8vo. Editio princeps. This is an excellent edition, and the basis of every subsequent one till Turnebus's.—Trag. a Francino, Gr. cum Scholiis. Flor. 1522, 4to. A scarce and correct Work.—Trag. Gr. cum Schol. Flor. ap. Junt. 1522, et 1547, 4to. These are rare and valuable editions. The latter especially is much esteemed.—Trag. Gr. sine Scholiis. Par. ap. Colin. 1528, 12mo. An edition little known.—Trag. a Joach. Camerario, Gr. Hagen. 1534, 8vo. Et Bas. 1556, 8vo.—Trag. Gr. Franc. ap. Brubach. 1544, 4to. Et Franc. 1550, 1555, et 1567, 8vo.—Trag. cum Scholiis Demetrii Triclinii, Gr. Par. ap. Turneb. 1553, 4to. This was long distinguished as the best edition. The Greek Scholia which it contains were taken from a MS. of Æmarius Ranconetus, revised and corrected by Triclinius.—Trag. cum Scholiis Triclinii et Romanis, ab H. Steph. Gr. Par. 1568, 4to. An edition at present in much estimation. The annotations of Stephens on Sophocles and Euripides, separately published the same year, are necessary to complete the edition.—Trag. a Guil. Cantero, Gr. sine Schol. Ant. 1579, 12mo. An accurate and beautiful edition. Reprinted, Gr. et Lat. ex Vers. Viti Winsemii. Heidelb. ap. Commel. 1597, 8vo.—Trag. Gr. et Lat. Genev. ap. Paul. Steph. 1603, 4to.—Trag. Gr. et Lat. cum Scholiis. Cant. 1665, 1668, 1669, et 1673, 8vo.—Trag. a Thoma Johnson, Gr. et Lat. cum Schol. Oxon. 1705, 2 vols. 8vo. Vol. iii. Lond. 1746, 8vo.—Trag. Gr. et Lat. Lond. 1721, 1722, et 1747, 2 vols. 8vo.—Trag. ex editione Thomæ Johnson, Gr. et Lat. Glasg. 1745, 2 vols. 8vo. And also in one vol. 4to. The octavo edition is deemed inaccurate, but the quarto one is very correct.—Trag. ex edit. T. Johnson, Gr. et Lat. Lond. 1758, 2 vols. 8vo. Incorrect.—Trag. ex edit. T. Johnson, Gr. et Lat. Eton. 1775, 2 vols. 8vo. "This edition," says Harwood, "is a very accurate and excellent one, and does honour to the diligent and learned editor, J. T. (Tweedie, a Scotchman.)" It was reprinted. Lond. 1788, 2 vols. 8vo.—Trag. a Jo. Capperonio et eo defuncto, a Jo. Frans. Vauvilliers, Gr. et Lat. Par. 1781, 2 vols. 4to. This is a splendid edition; but is more beautiful than critical.—Trag. ab Harwoodio et Morellio, Gr. Eton. 1786, 4to. With various readings from Aldus and Turnebus, and a most excellent Index by Morell.—Trag. a Brunckio, Gr. et Lat. cum Scholiis recensuit, versione et notis illustravit. Argent. 1786, 2 vols. 4to. Ejusdem. Argent. 1786, et 1789, 3 vols. 8vo. This is a truly excellent edition. The octavo impression of 1786 is fully as complete as the quarto one, and less dear. That of 1789 is scarce, as only 250 copies were thrown off. It is corrected in several places, and has some additional notes.—Trag. ad exemplar Brunckianum. Hal. 1790, 8vo.—Trag. a Musgravio, Gr. cum Schol. Oxon. 1800, 3 vols. 8vo. A beautiful and correct work.—Trag. Gr. et Lat. sine Scholiis. Lips. 1806, 2 vols. 8vo. The first volume of this well-executed edition contains the Greek text, with a Latin version beneath. The second consists of annotations on the Tragedies, a Lexicon Sophocleum, and an index of Greek words.——ENG. TRANS.—The Tragedies of Sophocles, translated into English (Prose,) by Geo. Adams. STATIUS, Publius Papinius, a Roman Poet, was born at Naples in m the first century; died about A. D. 96. His Works consist of,—Sylvæ, or Miscellaneous Pieces, in five books; the Thebaid, in twelve; and the Achilleid in two, the latter Poem being left unfinished. These, although at one time much esteemed, are now considered among those Works which, by their forced conceits and swelling epithets, have a strong tene dency to mislead uninformed tastes from the true relish of simplicity and nature.——SILVÆ.—Silvæ. Venice, supposed to have been printed by Vandelin de Spira, 1472, fol. Editio princeps. Printed along with the Works of Catullus, Tibullus, and Propertius.—Silvæ. Venice, printed by J. de Colonia, 1475, folio. This, like the preceding, is incorporated with an edition of Catullus, Tibullus, and Propertius.—Silvæ: cum Commentariis Calderini. Rome, printed by Pannartz, 1475, folio. A rare and estimable production.—Silvæ, a D. Calderino, acced. Sappho, Ovidii, et Propertii, loca obscura a Calderino elucubrata. STEPHANUS. See Byzantius.

STEPHANUS, in English Stephens, and in French Estienne, the surname of an illustrious family of Printers.—The first, Henry, was born at Paris in 1470; and began the business of printing about 1503; died 1520. Among the Works he executed were, the Psalterium Quintuplex, 1509 and 1513; the Itinerarium of Antoninus, 1512; and Mara de Tribus Fugiendis. This Printer, whose chief excellence was correctness, had three sons,—Francis, the eldest, who was employed in printing with his Stepfather de Colines,—Robert (I.), the second son, the most celez brated of the family, and of whom we shall speak afterwards,—and Charles, the third son, who will also require a separate article. Of these sons, there seem to have been no descendants, except by the side of Robert (I.), whose progeny perpetuated the honours of the family. The first son of Robert (I.) was—Henry, the second of the name, who shall be noticed separately.—Robert, the namesake of his father, was the second son, but will require no particular notice. He was born at Paris in 1530; and printed from 1556 till 1571 when he died.—Francis, the third son of Robert (I.), was an author, and will be mentioned in due course. From the first of these sons, (Henry), was descended — Paul, who was born in 1566, and printed a at Geneva from 1599 till 1627, when he died, leaving two sons, Joseph and Anthony.—Joseph was King's Printer at Rochelle; and died in 1629.—Anthony, who is said to have been the last branch of the family, was born at Geneva in 1594; and died in 1674.—From Robert the second was descended; Robert, the third of that name, whom we shall notice afterwards; and—Henry, the third of that name, of whom it is not certain whether he was a printer or not. He had, however, a son—Robert, who carried on the business of printing, and left it off about 1640. And another—Henry, Sieur de Fossés, who was author of "L'Art de faire les Devices." Par. 1645, 8vo., which has been translated into
b English by Thomas Blount. Such is a genealogical notice of a family who were at once the ornament and the reproach of the ages in which they lived. They were all men of great learning, all extensive benefactors to literature, and all persecuted or unfortunate. The best account of them is given in Maittaire's Stephanorum Historia. Lond. 1709, 8vo. See also Peignot's Dict. Bibliogr. tom. i. pp. 252–55, and tom. iii. pp. 122–26.

We have still to notice more particularly some of the most distinguished of the family.

STEPHANUS, Charles, the third Son of Henry (I.), and a learned Physician as well as Printer; died in prison, 1564. He began printing c in 1551; and even in the short space between that and his death, printed a great many Works. Among the most valuable of those which he printed or compiled are,—De Re Vestiaria, de Vasculis ex Bayfio excerpt. Par. 1555, 8vo.—Abrêgé de l'Histoire des Vicomtes et Ducs de Milan. 1552, 4to. With Portraits.—Paradoxes, ou Propos contre la commune opinion, debattus en forme de declamations forenses, pour exciter les jeunes esprits en causes difficiles. Par. 1554, 8vo. Rare.—Dictionarium Latino-Græcum. Par. 1554, 4to. Compiled mostly from the Notes of G. Buddæus.—Dictionarium Latino-Gallicum. The best edition. Par. 1570, fol.—Prædium Rusticum. Par. 1554, 8vo. This has been trans-d lated into the French, Italian, German, and English Languages.—Thesaurus Ciceronis. Par. 1556, fol.—Dictionarium Historico-Geographico-Poeticum. Genev. 1556, 4to. Post. This has been published by Lloyd at Oxford, 1670; and Lond. 1686, fol.—Charles Stephens was also the Author of several Medical Treatises.

STEPHANUS, Francis, the third Son of Robert (I.), renounced m Popery with his Father, and accompanied him to Geneva, where he carried on the Printing Business, in partnership with Francis Perrin, from 1561 to 1582. The following Works have been ascribed to him:—Traité des Dances, auquel il est demontré qu'elles sont accessoires de dependan-e ces de paillardise. 1564, 8vo.—Remonstrance Charitable aux Dames et Demoiselles de France sur leurs ornamens dissolus. Par. 1577, 12mo. Reprinted in 1581, and 1585, 8vo.—De la Puissance legitime du Prince sur le Peuple, et du Peuple sur le Prince. Genev. 1581, 8vo. Translated from the Latin of Hubert Languet.

STEPHANUS, Henry, the second of the name, and a man of extensive erudition, was born at Paris, 1528; died, after an unhappy and wandering life, in an hospital, 1598. Among the ancient Authors which he published with Notes were, the—Poet. Græci Principes heroici carminis. 1566, fol. A splendid collection, of great value.—Pindari et cæterorum f octo Græcorum carmina. 1560, 1566, 1586, 24mo. To these may be added, Maximus Tyrius, Diodorus, Xenophon, Thucydides, Herodotus, Sophocles, Æschylus, Diogenes Laertius, Plutarch, Apollonius Rhodius, Callimachus, Plato, Herodian, and Appian; Horace, Virgil, the younger Pliny, Aulus Gellius, Macrobius; and a collection of the Latin Historians. His taste, however, inclined most to Greek Literature; and from that Language he has furnished us with translations of Anacreon, Theocritus, Bion and Moschus, Pindar, Sextus Empiricus, Æschylus, Sophocles, &c. And all Stephens's Translations, extensive as they are, are executed with great ability. The most valued of his own Works, original or compiled, g are,—Ciceronianum Lexicon Græco-Latinum. Par. 1557, 8vo. A new edit. published Aug. Taur. 1737, 8vo. This Work, which shews the various Passages of the Greek Writers quoted by Cicero, is extremely useful. The edition of Stephens is rare and valuable.—In Ciceronis quamplurimos locos, Castigationes. Par. 1557, 8vo. Usually annexed to the former.—Admonitio de abusu Linguæ Græcæ in quibusdam vocibus quas Latina usurpat. Par. 1563, 8vo. Of this there was a new edition by Koloff and Kromayer. Berl. 1736, 8vo.—Fragmenta Poetarum veterum Latinorum, quorum opera non extant. 1564, 8vo.—Dictionarium Medicum. 1564, 8vo.—Introduction au Traité de la Conformité des Merveilles Anh ciennes avec les Modernes; ou Traité preparatif à l'Apologie pour Herodote. 1566, 8vo. A Work both rare and valuable; the more so, as the text of the numerous after-editions is much altered. Duchet published a new edition at the Hague, 1733, 3 vols. 8vo.—Traité de la Conformité du Langage François avec le Grec. 8vo. without date. The 2d edition of Paris 1569, was cancelled in several places, which makes it less valuable than the former.—Artis Typographicæ Querimonia, de illiteratis quibusdam Typographis. 1569, 4to. This little Poem has been added to those published by Almeloveen and Maittaire; and there is a recent edition by Lottin, printed at Paris, 1785, 4to., with a French translation, and the i genealogy of the Stephani, from 1500.—Epistola, qua ad multas multorum amicorum respondet, de suæ typographiæ statu, nominatimque de suo Thesauro Linguæ Græcæ. 1569, 8vo. Reprinted also by Almeloveen and Maittaire.—Comicorum Græcorum Sententiæ. 1569, 12mo.—Epigrammata Græca selecta ex Anthologia interpretata ad verbum et carmina. 1570, 8vo.—Thesaurus Linguæ Græcæ. Par. et Genev. 1572, 4 vols. fol. The fate of this magnificent Work is well known. (See Scapula.) A great part of it was compiled by Robert Stephens the Father, with the assistance of other learned men. It is supposed by many that there were two editions of the Thesaurus, the latter without date. No part of it is j held in more estimation than the Glossary, published in 1573, fol., but which is exceedingly scarce. In 1745-6, Scott published an Appendix to the Thesaurus, in two volumes, folio.—Francofordiense Emporium, sive Francofordiense Nundinæ. 1574, 8vo. A Collection of Prose and Verse Pieces.—Virtutum Encomia, sive Gnomæ de Virtutibus. 1575, 12mo. —Discours Merveilleux de la Vie et Deportments de la Reine Catherine de Medicis. 1575, 8vo. This Satire was translated into Latin in 1575, and has been often reprinted.—De Latinitate falso suspecta Expostulatio, necnon de Plauti Latinitate Dissertatio. 1576, 8vo.—Pseudo-Cicero. 1577, 8vo.—Schediasmatum variorum, id est, observationum, &c. 1578, k 8vo.—Nizolio-Didascalus. 1578, 8vo.—Deux Dialogues de nouveau François Italianizé et autrement deguisé entre les courtesans de ce temps. No date; but 1579, 8vo. Reprinted at Antwerp, in 12mo.—Projet de Livre, intitulé, De la Precellence du Langage François. 1579, 8vo.—Paralipomena Grammaticar. Græcar. Instit. Lutet. 1581, 8vo.—Hypomneses de Gallica Lingua. 1582, 8vo.—De Criticis veteribus Græcis et Latinis. 1587, 4to.—Les Premices, ou le Premier Livre des Proverbes epigrammaticés. 1593, 8vo.—De Lipsii Latinitate, Palæstra. Franc. 1595, 8vo.

STEPHANUS, Robert, the first of that name, and the most distin-l guished of the family, was born at Paris in 1503: and after his Father's death, worked for some years in partnership with De Colines; but dissolved it in 1626, and set up a printing establishment of his own in the same part of Paris where his Father had lived. Here he continued until 1552, when, owing to the persecution of the Reformers, he had to fly to Geneva, where he printed many valuable Works, and died in 1559. Among the finest editions from his Press are,—The Greek New Testament. 1550, fol. A most beautiful Book: to which may be added the small editions of 1546 and 1549.—His Hebrew Bibles; 4 vols. 4to. and 8 vols. 16mo. —The Latin Bible. 1538-40, fol.—Historiæ Ecclesiasticæ Scriptores, Eusebii Preparatio et Demonstratio Evangelica, Gr. 1544, 2 vols. fol.—
m The Works of Cicero, Terence, Plautus, &c.—Besides the Prefaces and Notes with which Robert introduced or illustrated various Works, he is deemed the Author of the following: Thesaurus Linguæ Latinæ, &c. Par. 1532, 2 vols. fol. 1543, 3 vols. Lugd. 1574, 4 vols. This last edition is greatly preferable to the preceding ones. New editions: Lond. 1734-5, 4 vols. fol. This elegant impression was edited by Drs. Law and Taylor, aided by Messrs. Johnson and Hutchinson. With additions by Birrius. Bas. 1740-43, 4 vols. fol. And, by Gesner. SUETONIUS, Caius Tranquillus, an ancient Biographer, was born at Rome about the beginning of the reign of Vespasian, perhaps in the year 70; and flourished in the time of Adrian, whose secretary he was. He is said to have written many books, but none of them are extant, except his Lives of the first twelve Emperors, and part of his treatise concern-y ing the illustrious Grammarians and Rhetoricians.——DE VIT. CÆS. —De Vitis xii. Cæsarum. Rome, printed by Philip de Lignamine, 1470, fol. Editio princeps. This is a very rare and magnificent production.—De Vit. ex recens. Jo. Andr. Epis. Alerien. Rome, printed by Sweynheym and Pannartz, 1470, fol. A rare edition, with numerous ornamental initials. De Vit. Ven. printed by Jenson, 1471, sm. fol. Executed in the usual elegant style of Jenson's printing.—De Vit. Rome, printed by Sweynheym and Pannartz, 1472, fol. This is a complete reprint of the edition by the same printers, 1470.—De Vit. Without name of printer, place, or date, 4to. An exact copy of the edition by Jenson, page for page z and line for line.—De Vit. Mediol. ap. de Lavagnia, 1475, fol. With the Hist. August. Script. Mediol. ap. Zarot. 1480, fol. Bonon. ap. Plato de Benedict. 1488, fol.—De Vit. a M. Ant. Sabellico. Ven. 1490, fol. Mediol. 1491, fol.—De Vit. cum Comment. Beroaldi. Bonon. 1493, fol. Mediol. 1494, fol.—De Vit. Florent. ap. Junta, 1510, 1515, et 1519, 8vo.—De Vit. cum Beroaldi et Sabellici Comment. Par. 1512, fol.—De Vit. a Jo. Bapt. Egnatio. Ven. ap. Ald. 1516, 1519, et 1521, 8vo. These were formerly the common editions of this author, and clean and perfect copies of them are consequently difficult to obtain. The impression of 1521 is preferable, as containing the annotations of Erasmus, a and an Index Memorabilium.—De Vit. Lugd. 1520, 8vo. A correct edition.—De Vit. cum Not. Erasmi et Egnatii. Par. ap. Colin. 1527, et 1535, 8vo. Bas. 1533, et 1546, fol.—De Vit. Lugd. ap. A valuable edition.—De Vit. a Glareano. Bas. 1553, 1560, 8vo. With notes and various readings.—De Vit. et de claris Grammaticis et Rhetoribus, a Theod. Pulmanno. Ant. ap. Plant. 1574, 8vo. 1578, 12mo. 1592, 4to. This latter edition is the best.—De Vit. ab Elia Vineto. Lugd. 1585, 12mo.

b —De Vit. a Frid. Sylburgio. Franc. 1588, fol. With the second volume of the Hist. Rom. Script.—De Vit. ab Isaaco Casaubono. Genev. 1595, 1615, 4to. Par. 1610, folio. Argent. 1647, 4to. These editions are preferable to all preceding ones. The latter of 1647 is the fullest, and contains the fragments of Suetonius, and the dissertation by Boeclerus. The Commentary of Casaubon is much esteemed. "Nihil vidi," says Scaliger, "absolutius in eo genere; neque hactenus quicquam mihi contigit in eo legere sine summa admiratione," &c.—De Vit. a Scriverio. Lugd. Bat. 1596, 4to. With the text of Casaubon, and the notes of Pulmannus. It was reprinted at Paris in folio, with the notes of Ursinus, c Lipsius, and Marcilius.—De Vit. a Bleau. Amst. 1630, 12mo. Par. Typ. Reg. 1644, 12mo.—De Vit. cum Not. var. a Joan. Schildio. Lug. The last of these editions is the best. —De Vit. a Carolo Patino. Bas. 1675, 4to. With Cuts.—De Vit. cum Notis brevibus. Oxon. 1676, et 1690, 8vo.—De Vit. ab Aug. Babelonio, in usum Delphini. Par. 1684, 4to. Et Lond. 1718, 8vo.—De Vit. a Sam. Pitisco. Traj. ad Rhen. 1690, 2 vols. 8vo. Et Leovard. 1714, 2 vols. 4to. The latter of these is a valuable edition, and is enriched with d fine cuts and illustrations.—De Vit. a Jacob. Gronovio. Lugd. Bat. 1698, 12mo. An excellent edition.—De Vit. a Pet. Almeida. Hag. 1727, 4to. —De Vit. a Pet. Burmanno. Amst. 1736, 2 vols. 4to. A very valuable edition, containing the text of Grævius, and many excellent notes of Burman.—De Vit. ab Ernesto. Lips. 1748, et 1775, 8vo. Of these editions
e the Bipont editors pronounce the first to be unworthy of Ernesti. The second is rather improved, although in many places erroneously printed.— De Vit. a Franc. Oudenorpio. Lugd. Bat. 1751, 2 vols. 8vo. A good edition.—De Vit. ex edit. Oudenorp. Edin. 1761, 12mo.—De Vit. a Jo. Pet. Millero. Berol. 1762, 8vo.—De Vit. ab Ophellot de la Panse (Mr. Delille,) Lat. et Gall. Ingolst. 1604, 8vo.——Eng. Trans. The Annales of Cornelius Tacitus, by Richard Greneway. Lond. 1598, fol. Containing also the Description of Germany. This performance has little to recommend it. It was, however, reprinted. Lond. 1604, 1622, 1640.—The Annals and History of Cornelius Tacitus, by several hands; with Political Reflections and Historical Notes, by Mons. Amelot and Sir Henry Savile. Lond. 1698, 3 vols. 8vo. Again, Lond. 1716, 3 vols. 12mo. This translation was executed chiefly by Dryden, probably from the French d of Amyot.—Ital. Trans.—Gli Annali, trad. da Giorgio Dati. Ven. 1589, 4to.——HISTOR.—Historiæ. Rom. 1495, fol.——Eng. Trans. —The ende of Nero, and the beginning of Galba; with a view of certaine Military Matters, for the better understanding of the ancient Roman Stories; by Henry Savile. Oxford, 1591, fol.—The ende of Nero, and beginning of Galba: Fower bookes of the Histories of Cornelius Tacitus; containing likewise the Life of Agricola. Second edition, by Henry Savile. Lond. 1598. Reprinted, Lond. 1605, 1612, fol. This is a translation of some merit, though considerably inferior to the same Writer's other Works.——AGRIC. VIT.—Vita J. Agricolæ, cum Comm. Mich. e Virdungi. Aug. Heuman. g Gotting. 1719, 8vo.—De Causis Corruptæ Eloquentiæ, ex recens. J. H. A. Schulze. Lipsw. 1783, 8vo. This Work, though now supposed to have come from the pen of some unknown Author, has been always printed among the Works of Tacitus, or those of Marcus Aper.—— OPERA.——For. Edit.—Annalium et Historiarum libri qui supersunt. Venet. Joan de Spira, absque anni nota. Editio princeps: containing only the six last books of the Annals, and the five first of the Histories. The exact date when it was printed is not known, but generally supposed to have been about 1469.—Op. fol. sine ulla nota. Probably printed by Creusner, at Norimb. about 1473.—Opera, a Franc. Puteolano, fol. sine h ulla nota. Supposed to have been printed at Milan, 1495.—Op. ex eadem editione. Ven. 1497, fol. A very valuable and accurate edition.—Op. a Phil. Beroaldo Jun. Rom. Steph. Guillereti, 1515, fol. This is the first complete edition of the Works of Tacitus; and the one on which most after editions were founded.—The same year that the edition of Beroaldus appeared at Rome, an exact impression of it was published at Milan, by Minutianus, bearing the date 1517.—Op. Bas. Froben. 1519, fol. This is a very valuable edition, and contains Observations on Tacitus by Alciatus: it is chiefly formed from the edition of Beroaldus. It was beautifully reprinted by Rhenanus. Bas. 1533, and 1544, with considerable i additions and improvements. The edition of 1533 is the most elegant.—Op. ab Ant. Francino. Flor. Junta, 1527, 8vo.—Op. Ven. Aldus, 1534. Formed from the Basil edition of 1533. From the assistance of a better MS. the text is much improved.—Op. Lugd. Seb. Gryph. 1543, 8vo. 1551, 1559, 12mo.—Opera, a Justo Lipsio. Ant. Plant. 1574, 1581, 1598, 8vo. 1600, 1607, 1627, 1637, 1648, 1652, 1667. Lugd. Bat. 1585, 1589, 1598, 1619, 1621, fol. 1588, 1595, 1598, 8vo. Aur. Allob. 1619, 8vo. These are the whole editions of Lipsius; that of 1600, the last he superintended himself, is the best of those which preceded it.—Op. cum Comm. Scoti Placentini, ad Annales et Hist. Franc. Wechelii. j 1592, fol.—Op. a G. Barclay. Par. 1599, 8vo.—Op. Lugd. Bat. 1599, 8vo.—Op. a Curtio Pichena. Flor. 1600, 4to. Et Francof. 1607, 4to. —Op. a Josiah Mercero et Justo Lipsio. Par. 1606, 8vo.—Op. a Jano Grutero. Franc. 1607, 8vo.—Op. cum Vell. Paterculo et sexdecim Virorum doctorum Commentariis. Par. Chevalier, 1608, fol.—Op. Par. 1611, 12mo.—Op. cum versione Germanica Jac. Micylli. Franc. Hosman, 1612, 8vo.—Op. cum versione Italica G. Dati. Franc. 1612, 8vo. —Op. ex recens. Just. Lipsii. Lugd. Bat. Elzevir. 1621, 24mo. 1634, 1640, 12mo. Amst. 1649, 1665, et 1678. All these Elzevir editions are k executed with elegance and taste; that of 1640 is however preferred, on account of having Grotius's Notes, and is one of the most valuable and rare of the Elzevir Classics. The Amsterdam editions of 1649, &c. may be considered only as supplementary volumes to those which precede them. —Op. cum Comm. Lud. d'Orleans ad Annales. Par. Blasii, 1622, fol. An edition of rather inferior merit.—Op. cum Italica versione Bern. Davanzati. Flor. Nestr. 1637, fol. Patav. Comin. 1753, 4to. Et cum eadem versione ac supplementis Gab. Brotier. Bassini Remondini, 1790, 3 vols. 4to.—Op. a Matth. Berneggero, cum Notis J. Freinshemii. Argent. 1638, 1664, 8vo.—Op. a M. Zuerio Boxhornio. Amst. 1642, 8vo. l —Op. Amst. 1649, 12mo.—Op. cum Not. var. a J. F. Gronovio. Lugd. Bat. Elzevir. 1672, 1685, 2 vols. 8vo. The edition of 1685 is printed by Bleau; that of 1672 is however the best, and is executed in the usual elegant style of the Elzevir press.—Op. a Jul. Pichon, in usum Delphini. Par. 1782-7, 4to.—Op. cum animadverss. Th. Ryckii. Lug. Bat. ap. Hackium, 1687, 2 vols. 8vo. This edition is formed from the first of Freinshemius, and is executed with considerable spirit and fidelity.—Op. in usum Delphini. Ven. 1708, 4 vols. 4to. This edition is both more valuable and correct than the former Delphin edition of Paris.—Op. a Christ. Hauffio. Lipsw. 1714, 8vo. Prefixed to this useful edition is a m Dissertation of Walchius on Tacitus and his style.—Op. a Jac. Gronovio. Traj. ad Rhen. 1721, 2 vols. 4to. This edition is executed with great judgment and learning, and is among the most distinguished of the Dutch Classics.—Op. a Joan. Aug. Ernesto. Lipsw. 1752, 1772, 2 vols. 8vo. Both of these editions are ably executed. That of 1772 is more ample and valuable.—Op. ex recens. Theod. Rykii, 1754 et 1760, 4 vols. 24mo. —Op. a Jo. Nic. Lallemand. Par. Barbou, 1760, 3 vols. 12mo. An accurate and valuable edition.—Op. a Gab. Brotier, cum Supplementis. Par. 1771, 4 vols. 4to. 1776, 7 vols. 12mo. These two excellent editions have formed the basis of almost all subsequent ones.—Op. cum var. n sect. not. &c. Biponti, 1779, 1792, 4 vols. 8vo. Editions, especially the last, of great excellence and value.—Op. cum Schol. a Lemgelio. Slesvic. 1792.—Op. a Bodono. Parm. 1795, 3 vols. 4to. A splendid edition.—Opera, ab Oberlino. Lips. 1801, 2 vols. 8vo. One of the most masterly editions of Tacitus.—Op. a Ruperto. Gotting. 1804, 2 vols. 8vo. This edition forms part of a uniform set of the Roman Writers published by some German editors: The above is executed with great ability and judgment. ——Brit. Edit.—Op. a Griersono. Dub. 1730, 3 vols. 8vo. This edition of Mrs. Grierson is highly eulogised by Harwood, who says, that it is one of the best edited books ever delivered to the world.—Op. Edin. 1796, 4 vols. 4to. and 8vo. Amongst the most splendid of the Edinburgh Latin Classics. The compilation is both accurate and judicious.—Op. recensuit Carson. Edin. 1818, 8vo.——Eng. Trans.—The Works of Tacitus, by T. Gordon. Lond. 1728-31, fol. Second edition. Lond. 1737, 4 vols. 8vo. 1757, 4 vols. 8vo. And 1770-1771, 5 vols. 12mo. A translation, upon the whole, of little merit.—The Works of Cornelius Tacitus, by Arthur Murphy, Esq.; with an Essay on the Life and Genius of Tacitus; and Notes, p Supplements, and Maps. Lond. 1793, 4 vols. 4to. Second edit. Lond. 1805, 8 vols. 8vo. This is a Book of great intrinsic worth; and not only contains an excellent translation of what remains of the Roman Historian, but the lost parts are supplied by original compositions, which connect and complete the whole.——Ital.
